

Text 1 Non-renewable energy الطاقة الغير متجددة

Jordan depends a lot on foreign energy sources. Ninety-six per cent of the country's energy comes from oil and natural gas imported from neighbouring Arab countries. Because of this dependence on other countries, Jordan has invested in research projects to identify alternative sources of energy.

At the moment, imported natural gas is used to fulfill the country's energy needs and to generate electricity. However, a recent discovery of natural gas in Jordan means that, in the future, less natural gas will need to be imported. Oil shale rock has also found in Jordan, most notably in the west-central area. Shale oil can be produced from this type of sedimentary rock. It is a substitute for crude oil, but the extraction process for shale oil is more expensive. The process is also quite dangerous and produces a lot of waste product. At the moment, no shale oil industry exists in Jordan but several companies are considering using it to generate thermal power.

Nuclear power holds hope for Jordan's future energy supply. Plans are in place to construct two nuclear reactors which will double the country's electricity generation capacity. Jordan plans to get 60 per cent of its energy needs from nuclear energy by 2035 CE.

Text 3 The language of Braille لغة بريل

Communication, the sharing of information, ideas and thoughts, can take many forms. Before the development of writing, people communicated via smoke signals, cave paintings and drumbeats. The first systems of writing used pictures to convey meaning. Gradually, as language developed, alphabets evolved, using letters and symbols which represented sounds. These sounds in turn made up words.

The invention of the printing press in the 15th century led to the first forms of mass media: newspapers and magazines. Until then, it hadn't been possible to reach thousands of readers at the same time. However, only sighted people could access these media.

This all changed in 1820 CE. It happened when an officer in the military in France was visiting the Royal Institute of the Blind in Paris. He wanted to demonstrate to the students a system of dots he had invented. These dots allowed soldiers to communicate without speaking. This method of communication caught the attention of Louis Braille, a young man who was studying at the Institute.

After many years of work, Louis Braille had improved and completed the system of raised dots, which became known as Braille. The characters consist of six tactile dots that can form 64 combinations, spelling out letters, numbers and symbols.

By 1868 CE, 16 years after Louis Braille's death, blind people all over the world were using Braille every day. It has also been adapted to scripts in different languages. It enables blind people to read books, maps and labels, and even to press buttons in a lift. A wide range of national daily newspapers are available in Braille, too.

Nowadays, screen-reading software means that the text on a computer screen can be heard aloud. Digital talking books that simultaneously generate output in Braille are also available.

Questions

1- How did mass media contribute to the invention of Braille?

By issuing versions using Braille to enable the blind to read newspapers and magazines.

2- Why do you think soldiers had to communicate without speaking?

I think they did that to keep their communication secret.

3- What makes Braille an official system of communication?

Because it's used all over the world.

4-How does technology nowadays help blind people to communicate?
Text on a computer screen can be heard aloud, and digital talking books that simultaneously generate output in Braille are also available.

5- Do you think Braille is a practical way for the blind to communicate?
Justify your answer.

I think Braille is practical for the blind to communicate because it uses a sense that they have. It could be very slow though, as reading with fingers might take longer time.

6- How did people communicate before the development of writing?
People communicated via smoke signals, cave paintings and drumbeats.

7- What did the first systems of writing use to convey meaning?

The first systems of writing used pictures to convey meaning.

Text 4 The Minoan civilization

الحضارة الميناوية

The Minoan civilization ruled the Mediterranean Island of Crete for 1,500 years, until it was destroyed in 1450 BCE. The Minoans built the first paved roads in Europe and introduced running water. They had a powerful navy, which might have been why they were such a strong civilization for so long.

For many years people have been trying to find why this developing civilization might have disappeared. Even after Crete was hit by a large earthquake around 1,700 BCE, the Minoans rebuilt their cities. So what caused their civilization to end?

Many experts say that the end of the Minoan civilization might have been caused by the eruption of a volcano on the nearby Island of Santorini, almost 3,500 years ago.

However, at Knossos in Crete, scientists have been examining deposits of ash, marine species, cattle bones and seashells in the soil. How could these deposits have got there? The only answer is that they must have been deposited in Crete by a tsunami.

Experts have now pieced together a possible explanation of what might have happened. They believe that several tsunamis might have hit the northern and eastern shores of the island, every thirty minutes due to the eruption of the volcano on Santorini. It must have been a terrifying experience for the Minoans living there!

Text 6 Crude oil النفط الخام

Crude oil is currently the most important source of energy in the world. It is fossil fuel which is formed over many years by the decomposition of organic compounds or anything that contains the element Carbon.

These organic materials come from the remains of animals and plants. When sediment and other organic materials are buried deep under the ground under high temperature and pressure, crude oil is formed.

It then undergoes many different processes before it is ready to be used as energy, and from it we get petrol, diesel and kerosene, among other fuels. However, due to the time taken to form new supplies of crude oil, it is considered to be a finite, non-renewable source of energy.

Text 7 The history of pizza تاريخ البيتزا

The earliest form of pizza was invented when soldiers needed food to take with them on long marches. They backed a kind of bread flat on their shields and then covered it with cheese and dates. This early pizza was a convenient, healthy food for people who were constantly on the move. The wheat flour base provided energy in the form of carbohydrates, the cheese gave the soldiers calcium, which kept their bones and teeth healthy, and the dates provided protein, fiber and various vitamins and minerals that are necessary to keep the body healthy. Pizza is also mentioned in the 3rd century BCE, when there was written evidence of a flat round bread that had olive oil, herbs and honey on the top. It was backed on hot stones.

When people explored the remains of Pompeii, Italy, they found evidence of a flat flour cake that was baked and widely eaten there at that time. There was also evidence of the first pizza restaurants in as Pompeii in the 16th century CE. Visitors can see the pizza ovens in the ruins, even today. In 1522 CE, travelers returning to Europe from Peru bought back tomatoes with them. The people of Naples added the new tomatoes with them. The people of Naples added the new tomatoes to their bread, which consisted of flour, oil, salt and yeast, and created the first simple pizza.

In 1889 CE, the King of Italy and his wife, Queen Margherita, were on holiday in Naples in Italy. They asked a famous pizza chef to come and cook for them. He prepared three kinds of pizza. The queen's favourite one was the one that had been made with a white cheese called mozzarella, a green herb called basil, and ripe, red tomatoes. These were exactly the colours of the Italian flag. The chef named this pizza in honour of the Queen; the Margherita.

Text 8 Calories and health السعر الحراري والصحة

A calorie is a unit of energy. When you hear that a substance contains 100 calories, it's a way of describing how much energy it gives your body. Most foods and drinks contain calories. Some foods, such as lettuce, contain few calories—a cup of lettuce, for example, contains fewer than ten calories.

One gram of protein or carbohydrate contains 4 calories, and the same amount of fat contains more than double that number – 9 calories. So, to find out how many calories there are in a type of food, you can multiply the number of grams by the number of calories in a gram of that food group. We all need energy, so a healthy, balance diet includes the right number of calories – not too many, and not too few.

Teenagers need more calories than younger children. Teenage boys on average need 2,200 to 3,200 calories a day, and girls of the same age need 1,88 to 2,400 calories a day. However, whether they are girls or boys, teenagers who are active and move around a lot will need more calories than those who don't.

If you eat more calories than your body needs, the leftover calories are converted to fat. Too much fat can lead to health problems. Exercising is really important, too, because activity burns calories.

Questions:

1- Define the calorie?

A calorie is a unit of energy

2- There are many foods and drinks that contain calories. Write down two of these foods and drinks.

Some foods, such as lettuce, contain few calories—a cup of lettuce, for example, contains fewer than ten calories.

3- How do we know how many calories are there in a type of food?

you can multiply the number of grams by the number of calories in a gram of that food group

4- What will happen if we eat more calories than our body needs?

the leftover calories are converted to fat.

5- Why is exercising very important?

because activity burns calories.

6- What can much fat lead to?

health problems

7- What does the underlined word they refer to?

teenagers
