Water is essential for life. Our wellbeing, sanitation, agriculture and industry all count upon a supply of water. We use it to swim in, sail on and take pleasure in the numerous plants and animals that depend on it. Jordan's scarcity of water is a long-term challenge for environmentalists. Water resources in Jordan have remained quite stable over the years, and Jordan has become a densely-populated country. Current use of water already exceeds renewable supply.

Consequently, the Jordanian government have released the following notice to commence raising awareness of this matter.

1. Jordanians must recognise that the available water supply is finite, and they must take responsibility for this issue within their own households.
2. Accountability must be assumed for water management in Jordan. This responsibility should be recognised by individual citizens, the public sector and the private sector alike. The situation necessitates the partnership of the Jordanian people to improve conditions within their own environs.
3. A deeper understanding of the available amounts, actual quality and natural protection of Jordan's water resources must be reached. This knowledge will be circulated in schools and throughout the community.
4. The quality and standards of drinking water will be consistently maintained to ensure that Jordanians have potable water that is free from pollutants.
