Text 1 : (25 points)

Scientists have successfully invented a prosthetic hand with a sense of touch. It is an exciting new invention, which they plan to develop. It is possible that, in the not-too-distant future, similar artificial arms and legs will have taken the place of today's prosthetic limbs.

Dennis Sorensen, a 39-year-old from Denmark, was the first person to try out the new invention. After losing his left hand in an accident, he had been using a standard prosthetic hand for nine years. The new hand, which was developed by Swiss and Italian scientists, was a huge improvement. With it, Sorensen could not only pick up and manipulate objects, but he could also feel them. 'When I held an object, I could feel if it was soft or hard, round or square,' he explained. He said that the sensations were almost the same as the ones he felt with his other hand.

Unfortunately, Sorensen was only taking part in trials, and the equipment is not ready for general use yet. He was only allowed to wear it for a month, for safety reasons. So now he has his old artificial hand back. However, he hopes that soon he will be wearing the new type of hand again. He is looking forward to the time when similar artificial limbs are available for the thousands of people who need them. He will have helped to transform their lives.

1. What is special with the new prosthetic hand? (6 points)
2. The scientists who developed the new hand were from two nationalities. Write down these nationalities. (6 points)
3. Quote the sentence which indicates that Sorensen used experimental equipment. (4 points)

Text Two: (25 points)

It is said that students who study foreign languages do better, on the whole, in general tests in Maths, reading and vocabulary than students who have only mastered their mother tongue.

According to a study carried out by Pennsylvania State University, USA, multilingual people are able to switch between two systems of speech, writing, and structure quite easily.

It has been proved that they are also able to switch easily between completely different tasks.

One experiment required participants to operate a driving simulator while carrying out separate tasks at the same time.

The experiment showed that multilingual participants were less distracted by the other tasks and therefore made fewer driving errors.

It is believed that language learning can also improve your decision-making skills. When you speak a foreign language, you are constantly weighing up subtle differences in meaning of a word or the way that an utterance is made.

Finally, learning a foreign language can also improve your ability to use your mother tongue more effectively . As you become more aware of the Way that a language works, you begin to apply it to the language that you use every day.

1.Studying foreign languages helps in doing better in the tests of some subjects.
Mention two of these subjects. (6 points)

2.Multilingual people can switch between two systems of a certain skills. Mention two skills of them. (6 points)

3.Why did Multilingual participates make fewer driving errors in driving simulator experiment? (4 points)

4.Find a word from the text which means "something that is said". (3 points)

5.English language is a very important language that everyone should master to prosper in life, Think of this statement and in two sentences write down your point of view. (6 points)
