PART ONE: READING COMPREHENSION: (23 POINTS)

Read the following text carefully, and then in your ANSWER BOOKLET answer all the questions that follow. Your answers should be based on the text.

Nowadays, increasing numbers of people are concerned about healthy eating. Diseases and illnesses, relating to a poor diet and not eating the right kinds of food, are on the rise. It is generally accepted that people are not including enough fruit and vegetables in their diet. Too many of the wrong foods are consumed, especially those with a high fat and salt content. Also, excessive use of salt can lead to health problems such as high blood pressure. Starting the day off with a nutritious breakfast can be beneficial for a healthy lifestyle and a balanced diet. Breakfast cereals, fortified with vitamins, are a good thing. In addition, carbohydrates, usually found in rice, potatoes, and pasta, provide much needed energy. Cutting down on fried foods, such as chips and fizzy soft drinks can also be a positive contribution to healthy living.

There is a wide range of tinned and packaged foods available to the consumer. It is not always easy to make the right choices about what to buy. One thing that can be done is to have a careful look at food labels on the back of food packaging such as packets, tins and cartons. They can be helpful in guiding you to make the right decision. Laws on food standards now require that all food items, except meat, poultry, fresh vegetables and fresh fruit, must be labelled with specific nutritional information. The food label lists the ingredients, with the main ingredient first, and includes information on the number of servings, calories and fat content. It is advised that the total amount of fat consumed per day should not exceed 30% of one's diet. The amount of salt is also specified, as well as the recommended daily intake of nutrients.
