Read the following text about using technology in class carefully, and then in your ANSWER BOOKLET answer all the questions that follow. Your answers should be based on the text.

Many classrooms now use a whiteboard as a computer screen. As a consequence, teachers can show websites on the board in front of the class. Teachers can then use the Internet to show educational programmes, play educational games, music, recordings languages, and so on.

In some countries, tablet computers are available for students to use in class.

Therefore, students can use the tablets to do tasks such as showing photographs, researching information, recording interviews and creating diagrams.

Tablets are ideal for pair and group work.

Teachers can perhaps ask their students to start writing a blog either about their own lives or as if they were someone famous. They can also create a website for the classroom. Students can contribute to the website, so for example They can post work, photos and messages .

Most young people communicate through social media, by which they send each other photos and messages via the Internet. Some students like to send messages that are under 140 letters for anyone to read. Teachers can ask students to summarise Information about what they have learnt in class in the same way. If students learn to summarise quickly, they will be able to use this skill in future.

Students can use social media on their computers to help them with their studies, including asking other students to check and compare their work, asking questions and sharing ideas. The teacher must be part of the group, too, to monitor what is happening.

Read the article about The Internet of Things carefully, and then in your ANSWER BOOKLET answer all the questions that follow. Your answers should be based on the text.

Every one knows that the Internet connects people, but now it does more than that- it connects objects, too. These days, computers often communicate with each other; for example, your TV automatically download your favourite TV show, or your 'sat; nav' system tells you where you are. This is known as the " Internet of Things", and there's a lot more to come.

In just a few years' time, experts say that billions of machines will be connected to each other to the Internet. As a consequence, computers will increasingly run our lives for us.

For example, your fridge will know when you need more milk and add it to your online shopping list; your windows will close if it is likely to rain; your watch will record your heart rate and email your doctor; and your sofa will tell you when you need to stand up and get some exercise!

Many people are excited about the ' Internet of Things'. For them, a dream is coming true. They say that our lives will be easier and more comfortable.

However, others are not sure. They want to keep control of their own lives and their things. In addition, they wonder what would happen if criminals managed to access their passwords and security settings. The dream could easily become a nightmare!

Read the report about Health in Jordan carefully, and then answer all the questions that follow. Your answers should be based on the text.

conditions Health in Jordan are among the best in the Middle East. This is largely due to the country's commitment to making healthcare for all a top priority. Advances in education, economic conditions, sanitation, clean water, diet and housing have made our community healthier.

As a result of careful planning, the number of healthcare services has been increasing rapidly over the past years. More than 800 different kinds of healthcare centers have been built, as well as 188 dental clinics. In 2012 CE, 98 percent of Jordanian children were fully immunised, thanks to immunisation teams that had been working towards this goal for several years. Although there were remote areas of the country where people had been without consistent access to electricity and safe water, almost 99 percent of the country's population now has access.

Although the country has been focusing mainly on improving its primary healthcare facilities, it has not neglected its advanced medical facilities. The reputation of Jordanian doctors has spread in the region, and now many more patients come to Jordan for open heart surgery.

In Jordan, the open heart surgery programme started in 1970 CE in Amman.

The life expectancy figures show that Jordan's healthcare system is successful. In 1965 CE, the average Jordanian's life expectancy was age 50. In 2012 CE, this average life expectancy had risen to 73.5. According to UNICEF statistics, between 1981 CE and 1991 CE, Jordan's infant mortality rates declined more rapidly than anywhere else in the world – from 70 deaths per 1,000 births in 1981 CE to only 32 deaths per 1,000 births in 2014 CE.

The low infant mortality rate, as well as the excellent healthcare system, has been contributing factors to Jordan's healthy population growth, which will result in a strong work force with economic benefits for the whole country.

The King Hussein Cancer Center (KHCC) is Jordan's only comprehensive cancer treatment centre. It treats both adult and paediatric patients. As the population of the country increases, more and more families will rely on the hospital for cancer treatment. Patients come not only from Jordan but also from other countries in the region, as they are attracted by its excellent reputation, lower costs, and cultural and language similarities.

In order to cope with the increase in demand for treatment, the KHCC has begun an expansion programme. Building started in 2011 CE . The hospital will have more than doubled its capacity by 2016 CE, increasing space for new cancer cases from 3,500 per year to 9,000.

By then, they will have added 182 extra beds, along with bigger units for different departments, including radiotherapy. New adult and paediatric wards will have opened. Additionally, they will have built a special ten-floor outpatients' building, with an education center which will include teaching rooms and a library.

Many cancer patients live far away from Amman, where the KHCC is located, and the journey to and from the hospital is often difficult. For this reason, there are plans to extend cancer care facilities to other parts of Jordan.

Read the essay about language learning carefully, and then in your ANSWER BOOKLET answer all the questions that follow. Your answers should be based on the text.

Speaking a foreign language, it is claimed, improves the functionality of your brain in several different ways. Learning new vocabulary and grammar rules provides the brain with beneficial exercise , which improves memory.

As well as exercising the brain, it is thought that learning a new language also presents the brain with unique challenges. These include recognizing different language systems and ways to communicate within these systems. These skills improve your chances of success in other problem-solving tasks as well.

It is said that students who study foreign languages do better, on the whole, in general tests in maths, reading and vocabulary than students who only mastered their mother tongue.

According to a study carried out by Pennsylvania State University, USA, multilingual people are able to switch two systems of speech, writing and structure quite easily. It has been proved that they are also able to switch easily between completely different tasks .

One experiment required participants to operate a driving simulator while carrying out separate tasks at the same time. The experiment showed that multilingual participants were less distracted by the other tasks and therefore made fewer driving errors.
