TEXT A:

Interviewer: Why was your first trip to China not successful?

Mr Ghanem: I worked for a small computer company in Amman. They sent me to Chin when I was quite young. If only the company had realized that the Chinese respect age an experience more than youth!

Interviewer: Did you make any mistakes on that visit?

Mr Ghanem: Yes! I wish I had researched Chinese culture before I visited the country. I order to be successful in China, you need to earn their respect. Chinese business people wil always ask about the company's successes in the past. However, because I worked for a new company, I could not talk about its track record. We did not do any business deals on that firs trip.

Interviewer: Can you tell us about your last meeting in China?

Mr Ghanem: Of course! I arrived on time. You must not arrive late, as this shows disrespec Then, when I met the company director, I shook hands with him gently. I began the meetin by making small talk about my interesting experiences in China. During the meeting, I mad sure that my voice and body language were calm and controlled. I never told a joke, as thi may not be translated correctly or could cause offence.

Interviewer: Was it a successful meeting?

Mr Ghanem: Yes, it was. I knew that the director had researched my business thoroughl before the meeting, so I was prepared for his detailed questions. When I began negotiating, started with the important issues. The Chinese believe in avoiding conflict. It is alway important to be patient. I was prepared to compromise, so in the end, the meeting wa successful.

- 1) Mr. Ghanem's first business trip to China was not successful for two reasons. Write these two reasons down.

- 4) The text states many procedures that Mr Chanem followed to make his last meeting in China successful. Write down two of these procedures.
- 5) What does the underlined word "him" refer to?
- 6) Money and age are not the only factors in determining business person's success. Suggest three possible factors that may make you a successful business person.

TEXT B:

Speaking a foreign language, it is claimed, improves the functionality of your brain in several different ways. Learning new vocabulary and grammar rules provide the brain with beneficial 'exercise', which improves memory. As well as exercising the brain, it is thought that learning a new language also presents the brain with unique challenges. These include recognising different language systems and ways to communicate within these systems. These skills improve your chances of success in other problem-solving tasks as well. It is said that students who study foreign languages do better, on the whole, in general tests maths, reading and vocabulary than students who have only mastered their mother tongue. According to a study carried out by Pennsylvania State University, USA, multilingual people are able to switch between two systems of speech, writing, and structure quite easily. It has been proved that they are also able to switch easily between completely different tasks. One experiment required participants to operate a driving simulator while carrying out separate tasks at the same time. The experiment showed that multilingual participants were less distracted by the other tasks and therefore made fewer driving errors.

- 1) Learning a foreign language helps the brain in two ways. Write these two ways down.
- 2) Quote the sentence which states the two unique challenges.
- 3) Find a word in the text which means (any device or system that simulates specific conditions or the characteristics of a real process or machine)
- 4) The article provides two research findings about multilingual people. Write these two findings down.
- 5) It is often said that practice makes perfect. Think of this statement and, in two sentences, write down your point of view.

B) literature spot: Read the following lines from A green cornfield, then answer the question that follow:

And as I paused to hear his song While swift the sunny moments slid, Perhaps his mate sat listening long, And listened longer than I did.

- 1) Why did the poet stop in the cornfield?
- 2) How did time pass while the poet was listening to the skylark?
