Benefits of learning a language plus challenges

I have always been fond of learning languages, especially English. However, in this essay I am going to focus on the benefits of learning English in my social and academic life in the future.

Firstly, it improves the memory and heightens creativity. It also increases cognitive health later in life. As a result, it increases mental flexibility and communicative ability, too.

Secondly, it also improves problem-solving and decision-making skills; because of that, learners become more effective at multitasking and understanding their own mother tongue.

All in all, although learning English has some difficulties because I am not a native speaker, I am going to put my back into it. So, I am going to improve my listening, speaking, writing and reading skills. My teacher advised me to do a course on TOFEL in the summer. I also intend to study English at the University of Jordan after I finish the Tawjihi.

#Skills and requirements of a good worker

#Internship

Finding a job in a crowded market can be challenging unless you are familiar with the skills, qualifications and relevant experiences needed. In this respect, I attended a career fair last month. It was really beneficial as it enriched my knowledge about employers' requirements.

Firstly, many employers are looking for people with a proven track record. So, if you are a fresh graduate, you need to do an internship to get experience. Moreover, people who consider career changes can do internships as well.

Secondly, as well as having the right degree and qualifications, a career advisor recommended a worker should be competent, adaptable, conscientious and enthusiastic too. In addition, voluntary work is an advantage that can be added to your CV.

Thirdly, a good employee should have good communication skills. In fact, computer skills and language proficiency are preferred. Socially speaking, you have to respect your colleagues and your boss. Moreover, you have to abide by workplace ethics and the dress code.

To sum up, I recommend you attend a career fair because it gives you the chance to choose the right career path. I also intend to do a course on communication skills and team work.

Studying Medicine

I have always dreamt of helping those who suffer. So, I intend to study Medicine in one of the five medical schools in Jordan although I prefer Jordan University.

Firstly, I chose the scientific stream for the Tawjihi. I think Biology and Chemistry are vital subjects to start with. Although Maths is not vital for Medicine, it is compulsory. In order to get into Medicine, I have to do a course on English medical terms. So, I'm going to join in an online course in the summer. Thanks for the Internet which made learning easier.

Secondly, to get a degree in Medicine, you have to study for six years. In fact, the first three years are known as the pre-clinical stage. However, the second three years are called the clinical stage.

Secondly, personal attributes are vital for to-be doctors. Accordingly, I need to be fully committed and absolutely passionate about this path. Socially speaking, a physician should be communicative, helpful and a good listener to patients.

To conclude, after getting my degree, I intend to be a cancer specialist, namely a Radium therapist. May all my dreams come true.
